PURE CATAWBA BRANDY.
THE merit of really pure Brandy, for medicinal use, has long been felt, and the opportunity to procure such an article must be regarded as a public good. LYON'S PURE CATAWBA BRANDY excels the choicest imported Brandy in purity, richness of flavor, and wherever it has been introduced, it has invariably met the most unqualified favor and extensive sale. The following celebrated chemists have analyzed and certified to its perfect purity: Dr. A. A. Hays, Dr. Nichols, and Prof. Jackson, of Boston; Dr. Jas. B. Childers, N. Y.; Dr. Hiram Cox, Chemical Inspector of Ohio, Cincinnati; and other Chemists, North and South. Special attention of Physicians, called to the above. For sale by

THE TRI-WEEKLY YEOMAN.

ST. CLAIR ST., OPPOSITE THE COURT-HOUSE.
TERMS.
One copy, per annum, in advance, $4 00
THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1861.

Gov. Magoffin has addressed the following circular letter to the Governors of the slave States:

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY.

Executive Department, Frankfort, Dec. 9-1861.

Entertaining the opinion that some movement should be instituted at the earliest possible moment to arrest the progress of events which seem to be rapidly hurrying the Government of the Union to dismemberment, as an initiatory step, have, with great diffidence, concluded to submit to the Governors of the slave States a series of propositions, and ask their counsel and co-operation in bringing about a settlement upon them as a basis. Should the propositions be approved, they can be submitted to the assembling Legislatures and Conventions of the slave States, and a Convention of all said States, or of those only approving, be called to pass upon them, and ask a general Convention of all the slave States, and that such a Convention may be held upon this basis for a full conference. The present goal to be accomplished would be to arrest the secession movement, until the question as to whether the Union can be preserved upon fair and honorable terms, can be fully tested. If there be a basis for the adjustment of our difficulties within the Union, nothing should be left undone in order to its development. To this end, it seems to me there should be a conference of the States in some form, and it appears to me the form above suggested would be most effective. I, therefore, as the Governor of a State having as deep a stake in the perpetuity of the Union, and at the same time as much solicitude for the maintenance of the institution of slavery as any other, would respectfully beg leave to submit for your consideration the following outline of propositions:

1st. Repel, by an amendment of the Constitution of the United States, all laws the free States in any degree nullifying or obstructing the execution of the fugitive slave law.

2d. Amendments to said law to enforce its thorough execution in all the free States, providing compensation to the owner of the slave from the State which fails to deliver him up within the requirements of the law, or throws obstructions in the way of his recovery.

3d. The passage of a law by Congress, compelling the Governors of free States to return fugitives from justice, induced by a grand jury in another State, for stealing or enticing away a slave.

4th. To amend the Constitution so as to divide all the territories now belonging to the United States, or hereafter to be acquired, between the free and the slave States, say upon the line of the 37th degree of north latitude—all north of that line to come into the Union with requisite population as free States, and all south of the same to come in as slave States.

5th. To amend the Constitution so as to guarantee forever to all the States the free navigation of the Mississippi river.

6th. To alter the Constitution so as to give the South the power, say in the United States Senate, to protect itself from unconstitutional and oppressive legislation upon the subject of slavery.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,
B. MAGOFFIN.

MOVEMENTS OF THE SOUTHERN STATES.—North Carolina Legislature, (regular session,) met November 19, and is now in session.

South Carolina Legislature, (regular session,) met November 26th, and is still in session. The election for members of the State Convention in South Carolina took place on the 6th inst., and the Convention meets the 17th.

Louisiana Legislature, (special session,) met December 10th.

Election for members of the State Convention in Alabama occurs on the 24th inst., and the Convention meets on the 7th of January.

Virginia Legislature, (special session,) meets January 7th.

Georgia Legislature is now in session, and an election for delegates to a State Convention has been ordered for 31 of January, 1861; Convention sits 16th January.

Florida Legislature is now in session; election for delegates to a State Convention ordered for the 22d inst.; Convention meets 3d January, 1861.

The Legislature of Mississippi, (special session,) met on the 26th ult., and has just adjourned, after passing a bill unanimously providing for holding a State Convention. The election for members to the Convention will be held on the 20th of December, and the Convention will assemble January 7th.

The Legislature of Tennessee (special session) meets the 7th of January, 1861.

SOMETHING FOR COERCIONISTS.—Burke, maintaining in the House of Commons that the American Colonies could not be subdued by British arms, said: "In Virginia, and the Carolinas they have a vast multitude of slaves. Where this is the case in any part of the world, those who are free by far the most proud and jealous of their freedom. Freedom is to them not only an employment, but a kind of rank and privilege. Not seeing there that freedom, as in countries where it is a common blessing, and as broad and general as the air, may be united with much abject toil—with great misery—with all the exterior of servitude; liberty looks, among them, like something that is more noble and liberal. I do not mean, sir, to commend the superior morality of this sentiment, which has at least as much pride as virtue in it, but I cannot alter the nature of man. The fact is so, and those people of the Southern Colonies are much more strongly, and with a higher and more stubborn spirit, attached to liberty than those to the Northward. There were all the Ancient Commonwealths—such were our Gothic ancestors—such in our days were the Poles, and such will be all masters of slaves, who are not slaves themselves. In such a people the haughtiness of domination combines with the spirit of freedom, fortifies it, and renders it invincible."

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.—We call attention to the Prospectus of this old and well known Philadelphia weekly in our advertising columns. It will be seen that its publishers offer a large and handsome engraving, as well as Webster's Dictionary, and Lippincott's Gazetteer as premiums. The Post is generally acknowledged to be one of the best literary papers published.

Government Finances.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.
The report of Hon. Howell Cobb, Secretary of the Treasury, to the lower House of Congress, is a concise but very interesting document—the straightened condition of the finances of the government, which have been adversely affected by the unexpected political troubles of the country, giving it special importance just now.

THE LAST FISCAL YEAR.

The report shows that the aggregate means for the support of the government during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1860, amounted to $1,091,396 43, inclusive of a balance of $1,339,275 54 which remained over in the treasury from the previous year.

The expenditure during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1860, was $77,462,102 72, (inclusive of $17,613,628 of public debt redeemed,) which, deducted from the aggregate receipts as above of $1,091,396 43, left a balance in the treasury on the 1st of July last of $3,629,276 71.

Of the receipts during the last year, $1,395,200 were from Treasury notes, and the rest of December 23, 1857, and $1,380,000 from loans, per act June 14, 1855, and from other sources as follows: Customs, $51,187,511 87; public lands, $1,775,553 71; and miscellaneous, $1,010,764 31.

PRESENT FISCAL YEAR.

The receipts of the past quarter of the fiscal year 1861, from July 1 to September 30, 1860, have amounted to $16,719,750 14, (there is an increase of $173,000 00 from customs as compared with the same quarter last year) which, with the balance of $3,629,276 71 in the treasury on the 1st of July, 1860, makes $20,349,026 85.

The estimated receipts during the three remaining quarters of the current fiscal year 1861, are: From customs, $40,000,000 00; from public lands, $2,500,000 00; from miscellaneous sources, $500,000 00; from loans, authorized, $1,000,000 00; from July 1, 1860, $64,000,000 00.

Making the total of ascertained and estimated means for the service of the current fiscal year, 1861, $84,349,026 85. The expenditure of the first quarter of the current fiscal year, ending September 30, 1860, was $16,543,472 39.

The estimated expenditure from appropriations heretofore made by law, during the three remaining quarters of the current fiscal year 1861, according to the report of the register is $69,353,232 58.

The loan of June 23, 1860, the amount of which is stated in the report of the register to be $10,000,000 00, is not yet repaid, and is required to be applied to the redemption of Treasury notes—the amount of these notes and interest on them, as of September 30, 1860, was $25,454,000 00, reduced during the first quarter $20,234,670 00.

Making the aggregate expenditure, ascertained and estimated, for the current fiscal year 1861, $84,102,152 17. While the aggregate means for the service of the current fiscal year, as ascertained and estimated, is $84,349,026 85, as before stated, leaving a balance in the treasury on July 1, 1861, of $236,874 68.

The foregoing statement assumes that the whole sum embraced in the estimated expenditure for the remaining three quarters of the current fiscal year will be actually called for within the year. The amount stated, $84,349,026 85, does not include the entire balance of the appropriation heretofore made by law, but such sums as the respective departments have indicated may probably be required. But in practice for many years past the sums drawn from the Treasury during any year have been very far less than the amount estimated as required within such year according to the character of the appropriations and the exigencies of the public service. It may be, therefore, fairly anticipated that should the operations of the government proceed in their ordinary course, that at least ten millions of dollars more may be deducted from the estimated expenditure of the current fiscal year, and the balance in the treasury on July 1, 1861, to that extent.

ESTIMATES FOR THE FISCAL YEAR FROM JULY 1, 1861, TO JUNE 30, 1862.

Estimated receipts from customs, $40,000,000 00
Estimated receipts from public lands, $2,500,000 00
Estimated receipts from miscellaneous sources, $500,000 00
Total estimated receipts, $43,000,000 00
Estimated expenditures from appropriations, $69,353,232 58
Estimated expenditures from public lands, $2,500,000 00
Estimated expenditures from miscellaneous sources, $500,000 00
Total estimated expenditures, $72,353,232 58
Estimated balance on July 1, 1861, $236,874 68
Total estimated balance on July 1, 1862, $1,783,642 10

Aggregate estimated means for the fiscal year 1862, $84,436,642 10
Estimated expenditures from appropriations, $69,353,232 58
Estimated expenditures from public lands, $2,500,000 00
Estimated expenditures from miscellaneous sources, $500,000 00
Total estimated expenditures, $72,353,232 58
Estimated balance on July 1, 1861, $236,874 68
Total estimated balance on July 1, 1862, $1,783,642 10

The suggestions above made, as to not drawing from the Treasury during the year the whole amount of the appropriations authorized by law, will apply to the estimates, so that, in total, the deficiency of $2,857,584 53, there will probably remain in the treasury on the 1st of July, 1862, a balance of about $8,000,000.

The corrective of this estimate of expenditure for the present and next fiscal year, be illustrated in another and more forcible manner, the expenditure of the government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1861, exclusive of the redemption of Treasury notes, which are otherwise provided for, and the interest on the public debt, was $59,848,174 70, and in that sum was included $14,169,992 26 to meet a deficiency in the Post-office Department produced by the failure of the post office appropriation bill in the second session of the thirty-fifth Congress, and the sum of $1,000,000 to be paid and charged in the expenditure of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1861, though in point of fact the service was rendered and the liability incurred in the preceding year. It should be borne in mind that the sum of $59,848,374 72, included not only payments growing out of such an appropriation as had been estimated for the present year, but all other sums appropriated by Congress. There is no reason why the expenditure for the present or next fiscal year should exceed that of the last year. Allowing, however, a margin for an increase, it may be safely stated that the expenses for the two years will not exceed $90,000,000 each—making the amount to be provided for $180,000,000.

The estimated means of the Treasury for the same period are, for the year ending June 30, 1862, $161,250,000, which would leave an excess of estimated means over estimated expenditure of $75,999,999 74.

The estimate of receipts into the Treasury have been made without reference to the financial and commercial panic, which has assumed so threatening an aspect within the last few days, and of which I shall speak more fully hereafter.

The country was never in a more prosperous condition. Our planters and farmers have been blessed, as a general rule with abundant crops, and were realizing remunerative prices for all kinds of products. The exports of the last fiscal year had reached the enormous sum of $400,123,936, and the imports for the same period $362,183,441, yielding a revenue from customs of $53,186,661 87. The exports of domestic produce for the present fiscal year, as far as they have been received, indicate an increase full equal, if not greater, than that of preceding years, this authorizing the estimate of increased revenue to be made. Apart, therefore, from the threatened embarrassment in the trade and business of the country, these estimates, both of expenditure and receipts, would be submitted to Congress with great confidence that they would not vary very far from the actual results.

It is impossible to anticipate the effects which this threatened recession will produce upon all the business of the country. The absence of all ordinary causes for such a state of things leaves no data upon which to make calculations—leaves the elements of prosperity are in existence—abundant crops with remunerative prices, money seeking safe investments, and, indeed, everything to indicate more than the usual increase in trade and business. The panic which has so suddenly arrested this tide of prosperity must be looked for outside of the financial and commercial operations of the country; they are of a political character, and therefore so dependent for their ultimate effect upon future developments that it is impossible, at present, to say what will be the extent of their influence. It is, as some suppose, they are merely temporary, and will soon pass away, then there will be no necessity for any action of Congress, except to provide for the embarrassments already existing in consequence of them. If, on the other hand, the effect should prove more permanent, the fact will be made manifest during the present session of Congress, and in time for such action as will provide the necessary means to carry on the operations of the government and preserve the public credit.

Already has the Treasury been seriously affected by their causes. The receipts from customs for the last few days have greatly fallen off, and the limited amount received is composed each day of an increased proportion of Treasury notes not yet due.

The indications are that such will, at least for the present, continue to be the case, not only so, but in consequence of the failure of bidders for the late loan to comply with the terms of their bids, a portion of the ordinary revenues has been withdrawn from the ordinary sources of expenditure to meet the payment of Treasury notes past due, and the interest thereon.

This condition of things demands to be met as a matter of course, and the Treasury will be required to enable the department to carry on the operations of the government, and at the same time preserve unimpaired the public credit.

The permanent public debt on June 30, 1860, was $15,079,213 08, and the outstanding Treasury notes at that date amounted to $19,690,500.

By the act of July 22, 1860, provision was made for the redemption of Treasury notes and payment of the interest thereon. This act provided for the issuing of stock for an amount not exceeding $20,000,000, at a rate of interest not exceeding five per centum per annum, and to be reimbursed within a period not beyond twenty years and not less than ten years.

It was the policy of the department to negotiate this loan in such a manner as to secure the highest price for the money in the Treasury to meet these Treasury notes as they should fall due. To have negotiated the whole amount thereof, or any portion in advance of the notes falling due, would have subjected the government to the unnecessary payment of interest during the time the money would have remained in the Treasury.

There was no power in the department to call in the Treasury notes until they became due. Besides, the withdrawal of such an amount of specie from the public would have been attended with the most injurious effects upon the financial operations of the country. For these reasons, no negotiation of any portion of the loan was attempted until the 31st day of September, 1860, when proposals were invited for ten millions of the loan, which was made to meet all the Treasury notes that would fall due before January 1, 1861.

The rate of interest was fixed at five per centum per annum, under the conviction that the loan could be readily negotiated at that rate; for at that time the five per cent. stock of the United States was selling in the market at a premium of five per cent. The rate realized was just this expectation, and the whole amount offered was taken either at par or a small premium. Before, however, the time had arrived for payment on the part of the bidders, the financial crisis, in which I have already referred, came.

Some of the bidders promptly retracted their proposals, and others were willing to do so. Weighed by the department, though it was not a considerable sacrifice. Under these circumstances an additional term of thirty days was given to all bidders who would deposit one-half of the amount of their bids within the time originally prescribed. Most of the bidders avail themselves of this extension, and made their deposits accordingly on or before the 23d November.

The result of the department, through this just expectation, and the whole amount offered was taken either at par or a small premium. Before, however, the time had arrived for payment on the part of the bidders, the financial crisis, in which I have already referred, came.

Letter from Ex-President Pierce.

The Constitution publishes the following letter from ex-President Pierce, written to a friend in Washington:

Lowell, Mass., November 25, 1860.
My Dear Sir: Your letter was received at Concord, on Saturday, and I should have answered it long since. I have found a little interval of leisure. I am here to day on business, and can therefore do scarcely more than to thank you; but let me say, at least, be said.

The apprehensions which you so forcibly express did not increase mine. You know how sincerely and earnestly I have for years deprecated the causes which, if not removed, I foresee must produce the fearful crisis which is now upon us; and I know how ineffectual, in this section, have been all warnings of patriotism and ordinary forecast. Now, for the first time, men are compelled to open their eyes, as if aroused from some strange delusion, upon a full view of the earnest and magnitude of impending calamities. It is worse than I anticipated, and it is to be feared the present interval of respite will be followed by a different section of the Union.

In case of disruption, we shall all be involved in common financial embarrassment and ruin, and I fear, in common destruction, so much more appalling than any attendant upon mere sacrifice of property, that one involuntary turn even from its contemplation. To my mind one thing is clear—no man can, under existing circumstances, dream of coercion. The first blow struck in that direction will be a blow fatal even to hope.

You have observed, of course, how seriously commercial confidence, and consequently the price of stocks, &c., have already been shaken at the North, and yet there is in the public mind a wonderful confidence in the real danger. Still there are indications of a disposition to repeal laws directed against the constitutional rights of the Southern States—such as "personal liberty bills," &c.—and if we could gain a little time, there would seem to be ground of hope that these just causes of distrust and dissatisfaction may be removed.

The South will make a large draft on their devotion to the Union, and be guided by the wise moderation which the exigency so urgently calls for. Can it be that this flag, with all the stars in their places, is no longer to that at home—abroad and always as an emblem of our united power, common freedom and unchallenged security? Can it be that it is to go down in darkness, if not in blood, before we have completed a single century of our independent national existence?

I agree with you that madness has ruled the hour in pushing toward a line of aggression upon the South, but I will not despair of returning reason, and of a more awakened sense of constitutional right and duty. I will still look with earnest hope for the full and speedy vindication of the equal rights and equal obligations of these States, and for the restoration of the true and just constitution—fraternally secured by following the example of the fathers of the Republic—fraternity based upon admission and cheerful maintenance of all the provisions and requirements of the sacred instrument under which they and their children have so signally blessed. When that hope shall perish, if perchance it must, life itself, my friend, will lose its value for you and me.

It is apparent that much will depend upon the views expressed and the tone and temper manifested during the early days of the session of Congress now near at hand. May the God of our fathers guide the counsels of those who, in the different departments of government, are invested with the great responsibilities of the nation, and may the sitting of the convention which framed the Constitution, your friend.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

THE Sudden changes of our climate are sources of PLEURISY, BRONCHITIS, and ASTHMATIC AFFECTIONS. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should not once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Trochiscs," or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution more serious attack may be effectually ward off. These Sweets and Syringes will find their usual for clearing and strengthening the voice. See advertisement.

DICK'S ACCOUNTANT AND DISPATCH PATENT.
The Invention of this system is acknowledged and protected by the Government of the United States, and to all whom it may concern.
What I claim as my invention is, the contrivance of keeping accounts current, of whatever kind, description, or variety, in printer's type, by keeping the statements of the several accounts standing in printer's type, or their equivalents, the type being so arranged in form as to a fault of being readily and quickly re-adjusted in any particular part, where an account may have undergone a change, by the lapse of time or the current of business transactions; so that, when re-adjusted in all such parts, to any given date, an impression then taken from the type shall exhibit, in printed form, the true state of all the accounts so kept, accurately representing the debits and credits, or conclusions, in accordance with the end or ends contemplated in keeping the record, rendering it, in commercial practice, a balance sheet, and a most compact and perfect character, the details of management being substantially as recited in specification, wherein it is shown, that the fact or facts to be recorded, may be represented by figures, symbols, dates, or numbers, used either separately or in combination, or by whatever else will indicate the fact or facts as desired, and further, by means of the primary invention, I also claim the device or contrivance of rendering or transmitting accounts in partial or full statements, when the statement or statements are so arranged, that they may be printed, or otherwise, by the contrivance of my invention, by the medium of transmission, and that the particular mode of rendering accounts by the use of the Dispatch Machine, constituted of Apron Movement, Reel, and Cutter, I claim as my invention, and in connection with, and as a part of the machine itself, comprising the forms and modes of operating, as indicated in description, whether as a simple hand instrument, or propelled by machinery. And in connection with the foregoing, I also claim the device or contrivance of rendering or transmitting accounts in partial or full statements, when the statement or statements are so arranged, that they may be printed, or otherwise, by the contrivance of my invention, by the medium of transmission, and that the particular mode of rendering accounts by the use of the Dispatch Machine, constituted of Apron Movement, Reel, and Cutter, I claim as my invention, and in connection with, and as a part of the machine itself, comprising the forms and modes of operating, as indicated in description, whether as a simple hand instrument, or propelled by machinery.

John J. Haines, London, England.
"To 'Lex,' who in the Montreal Gazette of 1st February, 1850, pronounces the 'Lex' 'keeping accounts current' in type, a gross absurdity," thanks me hereby tendered, and the assurance given, that this gross absurdity, which has been patented in the domain of keeping accounts, is to be claimed. With these claims fully acknowledged and protected as above, this invention has already spread itself over Canada, sixteen States of the American Union, and into Great Britain, and is now used in more than three hundred Newspaper Offices. Its immense value to banking and similar institutions will be shown in a circular which will make its appearance soon. Meanwhile applications for information, Deeds of Right, or Dispatch Machines, will be received with attention, when addressed either to
